

Present Indefinite

A verb in the present tense shows an action that happens now. For the third person singular (he, she, it or singular noun), we add “s” or “es” to the first form of verb. But the plural noun and ‘I, we, they, you” take the first form of verb without “s” or “es”.

Examples

Alia and Ayesha do not play cricket.

He beats me.

The painter paints the chair.

He does not catch the fish.

The gardener does not water the plants.

We do not spoil the grass.

Does he convince him?

Do we play the flute?

Does he harvest the wheat?
